

I now attract my ideal partner.

I welcome romance into my life.

There is someone for everyone, including me.

There is a person out there who is perfectly suited to me.

I am not settling for anything less than I deserve.

If I meet people who do not match my standards, I let them go peacefully

I do not take rejection personally. It's not about me.

Every day I am coming closer to meeting my perfect partner.

I am open to meeting new people and discovering unexpected opportunities.

I am open to experiencing conscious love with the right person.

My heart is overflowing with warmth and openness for love.

My soulmate is on their quest to finding me.

The universe will bring us together, and I trust the process.

I will meet my soulmate very soon, at its right timing.

I already feel the love of my life partner.

The two of us were destined to be together.

The law of attraction that will join my soulmate and I becomes stronger each day.

I am open to opportunities and possibilities of where I might meet my soulmate.

I can sense that my future partner is very near; every day my intuition grows stronger.

I am preparing to meet my soulmate.

I create energetic space in my schedule for dating.

I am becoming my most loving self.

I have a very attracting personality.

I am comfortable with my sensual energy.

I believe in synchronicity and experience it in my life more and more.

I deserve to attract love into my life, and I now open my heart to it.